

The Three Brown Bears and the fast Cheetah.

Once upon a time there were three brown bears. That day their Mother told them they had to go and build their own slides. Then they went out to a hill near a park. They were thinking of what to build their slide out of. The first Brown Bear says, "I think I'm going to build it out of sticks."

The second Brown Bear says, "I think I'm going to build my slide out of straws and put some flowers on the top."

The third Brown Bear says, "I want to build my slide out of metal because that is strong and no one can break it."

The first Brown Bear collects some sticks and puts it on top of each other to build it up. It didn't take him a long time because he wanted to play. It didn't take the second Brown Bear very long either. He puts the straws into the ends to make the slide and then he puts the flowers on top. He plays. The third Brown Bear says, "This slide is going to be strong." He gets some metal to build it. "Then no one can knock it over." It takes the third Brown Bear eleven hours but he works really hard.

The Cheetah was watching the Brown Bears build the slides. The Cheetah goes down the hill and says, "Brown Bear, Brown Bear, let me play on your slide." The first Brown Bear says, "No, no, no. Not by the hair on my ear, ear, ears."

"Then I'll run and I'll run and I'll push your slide down." So the Cheetah knocks down the stick slide.

Then the Cheetah runs to the brother's slide. The Cheetah says, ""Brown Bear, Brown Bear, let me play on your slide." The Brown Bear says, "No, no, no. Not by the hair on my ear, ear, ears."

"Then I'll run and I'll run and I'll push your slide down." So, the Cheetah pushes down the slide made out of straws and flowers.

Then he goes over to the other brother's slide. He says, ""Brown Bear, Brown Bear, let me play on your slide." And the Brown Bear says, "No, no, no. Not by the hair on my ear, ear, ears."

"Then I'll run and I'll run and I'll push your slide down." But he couldn't push it over because it was too strong made out of metal.

So, he goes up the slide to knock it over but he ends up going down it and shoots off to the roundabout. The three Brown Bears spin it around as fast as they could because they want him to be dizzy. Then the Cheetah walks home really dizzy and the three Brown Bears live happily ever after.
