

The Three Fiery Dragons and the big, bad metal crusher.

Once upon a time there were three Fiery Dragons who decided to build a robot each to make them breakfast each morning.

The first Fiery Dragon's robot was made out of wood and made cups of tea.

Number two Fiery Dragon's robot was made out of plastic and made toast.

Number three Fiery Dragon's robot was made out of metal and made pancakes.

One day the Bulldozer was busy crushing cars and it made him feel very hungry. He suddenly could smell something yummy. He decided to go and find out what it was. He first found a wooden robot making cups of tea but the tea was too salty. He then found a plastic robot making toast but it was burnt. So, he found a metal robot making pancakes and they were yummy. He ate them all up.

The three Fiery Dragons woke up and went to get their breakfast but when they got down the stairs their breakfast was gone and they spotted the big bad Bulldozer. They breathed fire and burnt the Bulldozer. He drove back fast to the construction site and never went back to the dragon's house again.